ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Time etches the faults of great men out of the picture and leaves outstanding those traits of character which make them great in their present day portraits.

They, too, had their elements of weakness, as well as strength, otherwise they would not have been human. But the weaknesses have faded into the background. That is as it should be, for their faults were dwarfed in comparison with their virtues and the things they accomplished.

Several years ago a well known writer dug into history and furnished us with a biography of George Washington. It showed him to be possessed of many of the traits of character of the ordinary man and many of his failings. A heated controversy ensued in which it became apparent that when we have deified a man we do not want anyone to play the role of iconoclast.

Today we pay homage to the memory of one of America's greatest men—Abraham Lincoln, and there is none so poor but what will do him reverence.

Washington has been written about this man and many more will be. His life will always be an inspiration and a guide. What he did for his country has earned him enduring fame. Yet he was not a perfect man and doubtless many could pick flaws in his character. No man has ever been the object of more bitter attacks. His motives were questioned and his task was made more difficult by those who assailed him.

Woman Struck By Auto While Crossing Street

A freak automobile accident in which two cars and one pedestrian were involved seriously injured the pedestrian, Mrs. Mary Rendell, 70, of 514 Seventeenth street last night.

Mrs. Rendell was injured when she attempted to cross Macdonald avenue between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets and was struck by a car driven by Richard Gottardi, 23, 443 Stege avenue. The impact threw Mrs. Rendell against another car, driven by Christine C. Duggan, of 464 McLaughlin avenue, which was traveling in the opposite direction.

Mrs. Rendell at the Richmond Cottage hospital was treated by Dr. J. N. Boomer for a badly lacerated leg, fractured thumb and bruises and abrasions. She was taken there by Gottardi and Mrs. Duggan. She remained there for treatment last night.

Gottardi was cited for driving a car without a license, but was held blameless for the accident.

Crockett Youth Believed To Be Suicide Victim

MARTINEZ, Feb. 11.—Joseph Braz, 18, of Port Costa, was found dead at 1:30 o'clock this morning in his automobile near Crockett, apparently a victim of strychnine poisoning.

Deputy Coroner John Connolly, who said he is pursuing an investigation upon the theory of suicide, said the grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Braz, are unable to ascribe any reason for their son taking his life. They said he was cheerful and had expected to go to work soon at the Crockett sugar refinery.

Connolly has sent stomach contents and a partially filled bottle of milk found in the youth's car to the University of California for analysis. The official said he also found in the automobile a partially empty bottle of strychnine crystals.

Hot Money Plant In San Quentin

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—UP—A brazen counterfeiting plot in which spurious $10 bills were manufactured within San Quentin prison walls was disclosed tonight by Federal, prison and police authorities.

Captain Thomas B. Foster, local head of the Federal Intelligence unit, made the disclosure.

Three paroled San Quentin convicts have been arrested, two in San Francisco and one in Sacramento, in connection with the plot, it was announced.

Captain Foster said one of the prisoners confessed the $10 bills were turned out in the prison photo engraving shop.

First trace of the operations came last October when a number of the bills were passed in Seattle.

December 19th Warden James Holohan of the prison and Frank C. Sykes of the State Board of Prison Directors informed Captain Foster that one of the counterfeit bills had been found in the prison.

Last Saturday night a taxi driver reported receiving one of the fake bills in payment for a trip from San Francisco to San Rafael.

Thomas Bell, 42, San Rafael plumbing shop employee, was detained as the man who passed the bill. San Quentin records revealed that Bell was paroled in June, 1933, after serving five years for drunken driving and manslaughter.

Bell told officers that Dan Wilson, 26, of San Francisco, who was paroled in May, 1926, after serving five years for burglary, gave him

Helms Favors Junior And Senior High

A joint junior and senior high school for El Cerrito will be the recommendation of City Superintendent of Schools W. T. Helms, when the board of trustees holds a meeting.

No session was held yesterday afternoon and adjournment was taken until next month. Lack of a quorum was the reason.

Helms has consummated the purchase of the 12-acre site in El Cerrito from the Mercantile Trust Co. The erection of buildings will be considered at a later date.

Committee Will Hold Last Meeting

Assemblyman T. H. DeLap, of Richmond, will attend the last formal meeting of the State interim committee on agricultural marketing which will convene at the State building in Los Angeles February 20 to hear representatives of the citrus, avocado and vegetable industries. DeLap is a member of a committee of seven which will make recommendations for legislation, if needed, for the industry and present such recommendations to the State assembly for consideration during the 1937 term.

A similar meeting was held by the committee to hear representatives of the prune growers and livestock and lumber interests.

Symbols And Their Meaning Told To Masons

Clarence Severin, past master, and Hugh Brown, coach of Live Oak Masonic lodge, Oakland, were guests of the Alpha Masons at their regular meeting at Masonic hall last night. Severin and Brown gave interesting and instructive talks on the meaning of the various Masonic symbols.

The meeting of the National Sojourners, subordinate Masonic organization, which will be held here Tuesday, February 18 was discussed. The meeting will begin at 6:30 P. M. with a Dutch treat dinner, followed by a program and talks. It is expected that a large delegation of Sojourners from Vallejo, Oakland and San Francisco will attend.

Plans for conferring the first degree by a team made up of Richmond school teachers last night were postponed because of sickness. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

ABANDON JUNIOR PATROL

MARTINEZ, Feb. 11.—Trustees of Martinez schools decided last night to abandon temporarily student traffic patrols maintained at schools until it is determined definitely whether students can be covered by insurance and decided to ask cooperation of the city council in policing traffic in school zones.

E. C. Police Court Accounts Straight

CASH READY TO DELIVER ON DEMAND

A clear-cut explanation by Judge A. G. Thompson yesterday, made the fact plainly apparent that the so-called "shortage" in his accounts as police magistrate of that city is not a shortage in any sense of the word.

Money covering in full the alleged deficiency has been and still is in his hands, ready to be turned over to the city when the audit of his accounts show the amount due.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The statement issued by Judge Thompson yesterday goes very thoroughly into the details of the matter and provides very interesting reading. Its text follows:

"The public accountant, who audited my books ought to have known better than to refer to the $623.50 which he claims is due the city, as a shortage. I have not had time to check his report with the books of the court except in part only. So far I have found that he has overcharged me $45.00.

"This $623.50 is made up of two accounts or funds. The motor vehicle and the general fund. The report shows that there is $166.00 now in my hands in the motor vehicle fund to be turned over to the City and $457.50 in the general fund. The report further shows that on July 1, 1935, I had overpaid the City $6.50 on the motor vehicle fund and the said $166.00 if made up of money collected on cases disposed of the last part of September, 1935, just before I was kicked out of office, and one case in July for $10.00 and

Rains Flood The Streets Of This Area

Pouring out of heavily overcast skies with deadly monotony, over two inches of rain which flooded streets, impeded traffic and forced railroad drainage systems to capacity fell here during the last 24 hours.

In a three and one half hour period yesterday morning nearly three-fourths of an inch fell, swelling gutters to almost torrential proportions and running over sidewalks into buildings on Macdonald avenue.

TRACKS INUNDATED

At Stege, a large area of Southern Pacific tracks were under water, the first time this has occurred since a new drainage system was completed some five years ago. Train service was not delayed by the storm although local railroad officials report that westbound trains were running late due to stormy weather.

A power line of the Pacific Gas & Electric company was blown down at the intersection of Second and Nevin avenue yesterday morning, but was repaired before any damage was done.

TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Blinding rain and resultant slippery streets were blamed for several traffic mishaps, the most serious of which occurred on Macdonald avenue.

Ground Breaking For Exposition Held In Storm

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—UP—Ceremonies marking the beginning of dredging operations to reclaim the 35-acre Yerba Buena shoals site of the San Francisco bay exposition, were conducted in a driving rain today with some 50 army, navy and civil officials participating.

As Mayor Angelo Ross of San Francisco and Mayor William J. McCracken of Oakland cut a dripping pink ribbon tying together two five-foot operating wheels of the army dredge McKenzie, a member of the crew threw some gears into action and the dredge dumped almost a ton of sand into the shallow water of the shoals.

Prepared speeches by dignitaries attending the ceremonies were postponed until arrival of better weather, and officials hurried to the McKenzie cabin, where hot coffee was being served.

Lieut. Col. J. A. Dorst of the army engineers announced another dredge will arrive tomorrow and begin operations. Bids from private dredging operators will be opened March 4, with the army dredges carrying on until the private operators are ready to take over the job.

Check Passers Get Jail Terms

MARTINEZ, Feb. 11.—Two men convicted of passing worthless checks today began serving terms of one year each in the county jail under sentence by Superior Judge A. V. Bray. Both had made applications for probation and adverse reports were submitted by Probation Officer Thomas Boyer.

One is L. L. Wilcox, 34, of San Luis Obispo, accused of passing a worthless check for $50 on Chester C. Clear of Richmond. The other is Jack Manning, 24, of Pittsburg, who admitted giving a worthless check for $20 to Dennis Buresas of Pittsburg.

LOS ANGELES COPS DRIVEN FROM MOBOC

ALTURAS, Calif., Feb. 11.—UP—The Los Angeles "Foreign Legion" beat a hasty retreat from Modoc county tonight, leaving its money behind it.

Sergeant R. L. Bergman, and Officers W. L. Burns and E. H. Young, decamped in the face of threats by Sheriff John Sharp to have them arrested for "impersonating officers" unless they evacuated by tonight.

The sheriff previously had declined to deputize them to watch incoming freight trains and to patrol local highways in an effort to "reverse" Los Angeles-bound bums.

"With the evacuation by the Los Angeles police of their Modoc outposts, quiet again prevails here and citizens of this county hope to be able to stay," commented Sheriff Sharp.

"Sergeant Bergman must have understood my wishes,"

Bergman and his men previously had defied the sheriff's requests that they leave, halting apparently penniless vagrants and transients in an effort to turn them back outside California's borders. Alturas guards the northeastern entry to California from Oregon, Idaho, Pacific Northwest points and Nevada.

LEAVE MONEY BEHIND

Subsistence money for Sergeant Bergman was sent to Sheriff Sharp from Los Angeles two days ago. Tonight it remained unclaimed.

"I wish they'd come and get their money and stop playing hide and

World's Tiniest Baby Rapidly Is Adding Weight

OAKLAND, Feb. 11.—UP—Nancy Lee Vogt, "the world's smallest baby," threatened tonight to lose her title through natural circumstances when she showed an evident, but unmeasured increase in weight.

Physicians at Peralta hospital reported that Nancy Lee, who weighed 16 ounces at birth and receded to 15 ounces soon after, "is putting on weight."

They said observation led them to believe the tiny daughter of Mrs. Anne Vogt was gaining rapidly, but that it was impossible to determine accurately how extensive the increase had been because they could not remove her from the glass-enclosed incubator in which she has been living for nine days.

The infant is now receiving three teaspoons of milk every two hours, along with a drop of vitaminol, a calcium building fluid.

Doctors said she spent an "excellent night" and had recovered from an attack of jaundice.

Elks To Initiate Thirty Candidates

Thirty candidates will be initiated into the Elks' Lodge at the meeting next Tuesday at which time George M. Smith, president of the State association of San Jose will be a guest. Smith will also aid in the initiation.

A brief meeting was held last night at Elks' hall, presided over by Dr. L. H. Fraser, which was followed by a "cran feed."

Money Ready For Delivery Attorney Says

MARTINEZ, Feb. 11.—Money involved in two of the five counts in the indictment against Mrs. Ruth W. McCord, amounting to $260, was in her office, ready to be turned over to the county at the time the true bill was returned, was the claim made today by Ralph Wright, her attorney.

For the purpose of trial it has been agreed that all the charges will be consolidated.

NO BAIL ATTEMPT

Apparently no attempt has yet been made to secure bail for the ex-social service director, and due to the fact that the trial will be held on the 25th of this month it is hardly likely that she will attempt to get her freedom in the meantime this way.

TRANSCRIPT MADE PUBLIC

Transcript of the testimony given in the case before the grand jury was ordered filed today by Judge A. P. Bray. It revealed statements made by Mrs. Iona Booth, suspended social service bureau aide, relating to the $68.98 it is alleged Mrs. McCord appropriated to her use.

A claim for $65.98 was supposedly to cover transportation of Mrs. Ida Jackson, 50, from Richmond to Colorado, where she had relatives. Mrs. Booth testified that Mrs. McCord had made numerous efforts to dispose of diamonds owned by

Bandit Brothers Get Terms In The County Jail

MARTINEZ, Feb. 11.—County jail terms of six months and three months today had been imposed upon two San Francisco brothers, who were arrested January 24, after they held up a San Pablo tavern and secured $15.

Charles G. Cook, 26, of 925 Geary street, San Francisco, and his brother, Sam Wilmer Cook, 24, of 909 Howard street, San Francisco, pleaded guilty last week to charges of second degree burglary and applied for probation.

Superior Judge A. F. Bray denied the probation request and sentenced Sam Cook to three months and gave Charles Cook a six months term.

The men bought several drinks of Dick Gatto, bartender at the tavern, then represented themselves as federal agents and demanded money for not revealing asserted infractions of the law. When Gatto murmured, one of the men held his hand in his pocket, as though he had a gun, while the other looked the till.

Police radio broadcasts resulted in arrest of the pair an hour after the crime.

Young Man Hurt In Auto Crash

John George Young, Jr., 18, of the Richmond Cottage hospital with extensive deep lacerations of the neck and hand, suffered when cars driven by Louis Ferriera, 6445 Mosher Lane, El Cerrito and Dr. L. W. Wuesthoff of 5325 Zara avenue came together with terrific force at Macdonald and Twelfth at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Dr. Wuesthoff was driving a Packard sedan and Ferriera a Model A Ford coupe. Neither was injured although both cars were badly wrecked. Young was in the coupe with Ferriera.

Young was rushed to the hospital by Sergeant T. D. Floyd where immediate medical attention saved him from bleeding to death.

RAINFALL IS HEAVIEST IN MANY YEARS

By UNITED PRESS
Rain clouds scattered Tuesday night after an intense storm brought a miniature deluge to Northern and Central California, breaking precipitation records in many localities and bringing cheer to valley farmers.

In San Francisco, 2.98 inches fell during the 24 hours ending at 3 P. M. today. The mark came within .62 inch of breaking the all-time 24-hour record established on February 4 and 5, 1934, when 3.60 inches were recorded.

Scattered showers were predicted tonight and tomorrow, ending the downpour which closed sewers, flooded basements, stalled automobiles and disrupted street car service. The rainfall brought the season's total to 15.63 inches, or 1.46 above the normal average of 13.97.

VALLEYS ARE DRENCHED

Valley regions experienced heavy precipitation, but the U. S. Weather Bureau said there was no immediate danger of renewal of flood dangers unless rains continue in foothill areas.

The Weather Bureau at Sacramento forecast rising temperatures and snow flurries in the Sierra Nevada.

Fresno, and surrounding San Joaquin valley territory, reported nearly an inch of rain during the 24-hour period, with prospects of a continuance of unsettled conditions Wednesday and Thursday.

Sacramento recorded 2.32 inches

Health Of Richmond Is Above Average

Although sickness is more prevalent this year than on previous years, Richmond has less for the size of its population than other cities in the east bay district, according to Dr. Charles R. Blake, city health commissioner.

Where there is some talk of closing schools on account of contagious diseases in other cities, the number of cases of these diseases in Richmond is relatively small. There were 17 cases of measles reported in January but only four thus far this month, Dr. Blake said, adding that other ill, as scarlet fever and chicken pox are negligible.

Because there is no quarantine for ordinary colds and "flu" the number of cases can not be accurately checked but it is known that there are a number of families which have contracted the mild form of "flu."

Reports from the superintendent of schools indicate about 10 percent of the school population missing classes on account of illness with about a dozen teachers confined.

The only reason for prevalence of illness that Dr. Blake suggests is that it might be a reaction here from the violent winter weather in other sections of the country.

"NATURAL" FOR FIGHT CARD ON THURSDAY

El Cerrito, Madison Square Garden, San Francisco, will have the opportunity of witnessing the two boxers in action who have made themselves the most popular of any yet to appear in the El Cerrito arena—Jimmy Mace of the University of San Francisco and Tommy Cobb of San Jose. Cobb has shown himself to be the most deceptive and fastest boxer yet to elicit through the ropes at El Cerrito, while Mace, who also has plenty of speed, puts force behind his punches that belies his modest stature.

On two previous occasions the youngsters have faced each other at Madison Square Garden and their exhibitions were so good that local fans are demanding more. The first encounter ended in a draw while the second, which took place last Thursday night, went to Cobb. But there were plenty of people in the stands who were not so sure Cobb had won. Now Cobb is anxious to show that he can do it more decisively and Mace is determined never to let Cobb get another decision over him.

Other bouts on the card are: Stanley Morehead of San Francisco vs. Manuel Cabral of the San Jose Bears, 155 pounds; Modesto Vafioja, San Francisco vs. Filipino vs. Louis Ramirez of the San Jose Bears, 135 pounds; Cecil Cochran of San Francisco vs. Joe Allen of Oakland, 140 pounds; Wally Hagley of Elmhurst vs. Young Pete Tavis of Oakland, 140 pounds; Ray Woodard of Oakland vs. Frank Abreau of Alhambra, 152 pounds; Norman Day of San Francisco vs. Frank Morrison of Oakland, 140 pounds.

1500 Members Of Ship Carpenters Out On Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—UP—A total of approximately 1500 men were on strike in the shipyard today after members of the ship carpenters' union and others stopped work, demanding $1.40 an hour and a 35-hour week.

They have been receiving $7.20 for an eight-hour day, and working 40 hours a week.

Many of the carpenters and others are employed in plants where machinists and iron workers have been on strike for more than a month, according to James Sullivan, president of the carpenters' organization.

APPLICATION OF BUS LINE TO USE SPAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Notice of intention to apply for the right to operate up-to-date, air-cooled, streamlined busses across the Golden Gate bridge was filed with the railroad commission and the Golden Gate bridge and highway district today by Louis R. Lurie, San Francisco capitalist.

Lurie said he and his associates could finance the project without the sale of stock or other securities to the general public.

The railroad commission, meanwhile, announced hearings would be started March 31 on applications of four motor coach lines to operate across the bridge. Commissioner Wallace E. Ware told representatives of the four lines yesterday he will need more complete data before a decision can be made.

Officials of the Redwood Empire Association today announced the Federal government would be asked to construct a shoreline highway from the Marin county Golden Gate bridgehead to Fernbridge, Humboldt county. A letter has been dispatched to Congressman Clarence F. Lea, referring to a resolution introduced by Congressman John J. McGrath of San Mateo county, proposing a $3,000,000 appropriation for a San Francisco-Monterey shoreline road, and suggesting that similar military advantage would apply to a road north from San Francisco.

Latter Day Saints Plan Church Here

President J. Edward Johnson of the Oakland Stake addressed members of the Church of Latter Day Saints at a banquet attended by 100 church members at Redmen's hall last night at which plans were discussed for the proposed new chapel which the church plans to build some time this year.

Other speakers were C. M. Dewar, El Cerrito, Wallace Anderson and Albert Dietrich, both of Richmond, members of the building committee. Anderson acted as master of ceremonies.

Following the banquet a dance was held, with Marcy's orchestra providing the music.

LIBELOUS ARTICLE MAY RESULT IN SUIT

The following clipping from the Spokane Daily Chronicle of February 11, was received recently by E. C. Inlay, secretary of the El Cerrito Townsend Club, and "amazing" as it claims the El Cerrito Townsend Club is, a still more amazing thing is that any such unfounded tale could find its way into print in a supposedly respectable paper.

"Townsend Club No. One presents an amazing appearance. Located in the City of El Cerrito, California, it is equipped not with lounges and reading rooms for old folks, but with dice tables, roulette wheels and 'bird cages'."

"It is frequented not by oldsters napping or chatting about pension chances, but by a fast crowd eager for a chance to play."

"Explanation of the paradox is that proprietors of gambling joints, in order to escape police detection masquerade under the banner of meek, God-fearing Dr. Townsend."

Mr. Inlay forwarded the "amazing" clipping immediately to Townsend headquarters in San Francisco.

SANTA REM IS NOW IN GRIP OF EPIDEMIC

PARA, Brazil, Feb. 11.—UP—More than 1500 persons are dead as a result of an undiagnosed disease epidemic sweeping the settlements around the confluence of the Tapa-Joz and Amazon rivers, near Santa Rem, according to unconfirmed private reports tonight.

The disease apparently is not serious in Santa Rem, for the Pan American Airways radio operator there said tonight that he had heard nothing of it.

Many other population centers, however, were reported affected.

Symptoms of the disease are a high fever and constant vomiting which caused some people to believe it might be cholera.

The towns of Lago Grande and Coary were reported especially hard hit.

One report insisted the disease was spreading in Santa Rem, largest city in the area, and that women's societies were soliciting funds for relief.

Santa Rem is about 1000 miles up the Amazon river from Para.

Felder originally had Louis Turner, 33, of Richmond, arrested on a similar charge and Turner retaliated by swearing to a complaint charging Felder with the offense.

The men engaged in a fight near Richmond on December 1, 1935, it is reported.

Attorney Leo Marcollo of Richmond represents Felder.

RAINFALL IS HEAVIEST IN MANY YEARS

COLD WAVE ABATES—The worst prolonged cold wave of the 20th century abated Tuesday over a Midwest battered by three weeks of icy gales, blizzards and sub-zero temperatures.

As state and county authorities won their battles with 30-foot drifts, coal trucks lumbered once more into fuelless towns, milk trains reached terminals and travelers bade farewell to farmers who had sheltered them over the weekend.

In some sections suffering remained acute but hope was in sight for all. Continued cold was forecast but snow was not anticipated.

DEATH TOLL 285—An estimated 285 persons perished in the 21-day period of unprecedented weather severity.

HOT PRICES SOAR

Weather conditions were reflected on the livestock markets. Hog prices soared to the highest level in four months as the Chicago stockyards as paralyzed transportation reduced shipments to their smallest total in history.

GIARD COAL SUPPLY

Coal yards and cars at Marshalltown, Ia., were guarded against citizens who tried to commandeered fuel for their unheated homes. Peoria, Ill., public schools were closed to release 75 tons of coal for home use. Many dealers restricted deliveries. It was reported that railroads and industries were demanding from 50 to 75 percent more coal than normally on contracts that mines were compelled to meet before taking care of domestic orders.

One Central Illinois mine was shipping 95 percent of its production either to railroads or to communities in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota where absolute emergencies exist.

SOUTH DAKOTA SNOWBOUND

While in other states main highways were reported all clear, South Dakota still was snowbound. Fear was felt for those on distant farms and ranches. Tales of hardship in meeting emergencies were numerous.

DROF PREDICTED

As the Northwest dug out of deep snow drifts and transportation schedules returned to near normal, weathermen Tuesday night predicted the temperature would drop to 20 below by Wednesday morning.

Main highways in many parts of Minnesota were nearly cleared, but highway officials said it would be some time before the secondary roads were opened. More snow was seen for southern Minnesota, the hardest hit section of the north-west.

The temperature dropped to seven degrees in New York City.

Water pipes froze in many Long Island towns.

So far this month the temperature in New York has been eight degrees below normal. The city's streets were coated with ice.

Incendiary Mobs Threaten Managua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 11.—UP—A riotous mob paraded Managua streets tonight, threatening the electric light plant and attempting to set fire to several buildings as an aftermath of the slaying of a striking chauffeur by a British banker.

The national bank closed its doors as a precaution against looting. Many business houses followed suit.

General Somoza, addressing the strikers assembled in Central Park, appeared there somewhat when he announced that Porfirio Perez, district president, had resigned. Police Chief Domingo Melendez was also expected to submit his resignation.

Jurors' Illness May Postpone Lamson's Trial

SAN JOSE, Feb. 11.—UP—Possibility of further postponement in the fourth trial of David A. Lamson on charges of murdering his wife Allene, was indicated today when three more jurors were reported ill from influenza.

The trial was postponed to Thursday when W. A. Riggs was taken to San Jose hospital Monday suffering from influenza.

Today, Milton Raymond, San Jose orchardist, was in bed with a severe cold, while Mrs. Harriet Roedeck and George Davis, other members of the jury, were less seriously ill.

With only two alternates available for jury service, continued illness of three or more jurors would serve almost automatically to force a further delay in the trial.

BANDIT GANG ROUNDED UP AT SAN JOSE

SAN JOSE, Feb. 11.—UP—A police drive instituted by Sheriff George Lyle as an aftermath of two recent hold-ups and a murder tonight taxed facilities of Santa Clara county jail as 12 Filipinos were detained for questioning.

Caster Benny Reclusao, arrested in Stockton yesterday, will be charged with the murder of Fred Felix, January 31, according to Lyle. A companion also is being sought.

Lyle said Reclusao was linked with the crime by blood-stained clothes and other evidence.

According to Lyle's reconstruction of the slaying, Felix was picked up by two men in a local restaurant after Felix had quarreled with Fred Retal. He then was "taken for a ride" and dumped out, set off Alviso road.

Three of the 12 men held in jail allegedly are members of a bandit gang that robbed a tavern operated by Mrs. A. Mastrangelo Monterey road. They are: Bol Bonpasia, 28; Max Parillo, 30; Dan Severing, 35.

The trio also is suspected of grocery store hold-up last night when shots were fired at J. Seales and his daughter, Virginia.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Professor Moley's "Committee for Economic Recovery" has finally spawned a real idea.

For months the Committee's chief function appeared to be a Moley admiration gathering at which the ex-No. 1 Brain Trustster expounded on the State of the Nation—and incidentally, boosted circulation and advertising of his magazine, "Today."

New Albie Freed, financial father of the Committee, has sold a new housing program to the President.

This was behind Roosevelt's conference last week on the unenvied balance of the HOLC. One billion dollars from its unused funds will be transferred to a new housing set-up, and this in turn will be lent to private companies and municipalities at one per cent interest.

The President is sold on the plan one hundred per cent. He thinks it will mean the construction of a million private homes and the biggest building boom since the Bull Market.

Mrs. Roosevelt also is sold on the plan of making Albie Freed head of the new housing set-up.

To his end, Albie has played his cards well. It probably escaped general attention, but Albie was one of those who recently accompanied Mrs. Roosevelt to her Homestead Project at Reidsville, Va.

Furthermore, Albie has held out hopes that he might build a factory at Reidsville to employ the homesteaders. If there is one thing dear to Mrs. Roosevelt's heart it is her Reidsville homesteaders and Albie Freed knows it.

And if there is one fault consistently entertained by the Roosevelt's it is a perennial prepossession for colorful and charming personalities who cannot possibly fit into a smooth-running piece of government machinery.

Hence the General Johnsons, the Peeks, the Jimmy Moffats, the Jimmy Warburts, the Ray Moleys and all the other New Deal discards.

The 45-year-old Albie Freed is king of Paramount Cab Corporation, a New York taxicab company. He is an enthusiast, sincere, vigorous Roosevelt rooster and deserves credit for concocting the new housing plan.

But as its prospective head, Albie is a risk.

The death of Senator Huey P. Long has focused attention on a little known fact—that for years the government has paid the bill for burying members of Congress who die in office.

Ordinarily Senate funerals cost about $1200.

But when the bill arrived for the burial of the assassinated Kingfish it totaled $2500.

Apparently Huey's henchmen spared no expense—and then sent the bill to Uncle Sam. Chief item on the account is $2200 for a casket. The balance is for flowers and incidentals.

Some members of the Senate Audit and Control Committee are indignant over the size of the expense statement, and there was talk of demanding that it be cut in half.

But since the designation of Huey Long's widow as his successor, the proposal has been dropped. The total $2500 will be paid.

J. P. MORGAN

His two weeks' appearance before the Senate Munitions Committee was a pleasant and interesting experience for J. P. Morgan—as he cordially assured Chairman Gerald P. Nye upon its conclusion. But his partners were less enthusiastic.

More political minded than he, they were in a constant sweat that the famed international banker would make an unguarded remark which would hit the headlines. And the last thing he did was exactly that. Just before leaving the committee room, he observed:

"If you destroy (by taxation) the leisure class, you destroy civilization."

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11—UP—Mothers of child screen stars sometimes cause much worry to studios.

It seems in the past it has been the usual practice for the mothers of children who have caught public fancy suddenly to decide they know everything about pictures. As a result, they take it upon themselves to teach the motion picture makers how to make pictures.

It's all embarrassing for the picture makers. They don't care to offend the parent but, on the other hand, they don't care to have their picture ruined—with resultant loss on their investment—by amateur direction.

Until a year ago, the studios solved the problem in what was considered a high-handed method in some parental circles. Mothers, and some fathers, too, were barred from the sets where their children were going through their paces.

Now it seems that child screen star mothers are becoming sensible or the cure is having its effect. Several mothers have been known never to say a word or give even one bit of advice while they were on the set.

One of them who never becomes concerned over the rights of her darling is the mother of Shirley Temple. She assumes the role of an ordinary spectator while her daughter is working.

Studio executives, in their unguarded moments, concede that Mrs. Temple has every right to speak her mind. Shirley, right now, is the biggest money maker for producers in the industry.

But Mrs. Temple has studied the history of former child stars and rather learned from their mistakes. She tries to be helpful rather than dictatorial.

"I don't ever want to give the impression that I'm in the way," Mrs. Temple says. "I'd a lot rather be too conservative."

"I decided on that policy a long time ago. I don't want to acquire

TRY A CLASSIFIED IN THE RECORD-HERALD FOR RESULTS

Christmas Eve finds the residents of Houseboat Row, squalid river colony, preparing for the holiday in varied ways. While Luke Conners sets up beer in his floating bar, his daughter, Nightingale, is busy with thoughts of Vincent Locke, the man she loves, who lives in a great mansion on a nearby hilltop. Down the Row, Big Adam, evangelist, holds services in his floating True Faith Mission, little knowing that his son Dan, lured by two crooks, has got himself into serious trouble and has sought refuge at Luke Conners' place. In another boat, Tom and Ann Hannigan watch fearfully over their little Peter, critically ill with pneumonia. There comes a knock at their door.

CHAPTER XVII

THE young man who came into the Hannigan houseboat wore a soft, shapeless felt hat jammed over one eye. When he took it off, dark red hair shone above brown eyes.

"Are you Mr. Hannigan?" he asked.

"Yes—but I don't believe I know you," said Tom.

"I'm a reporter. Seely is the name. We've got a report that police have brought oxygen here to help your youngster, who's sick with pneumonia. That right?"

"Yes—that's right," Tom answered. "But gee, I don't think we want anything in the paper about it."

Seely smiled. It was a friendly, easy-going smile. "How is the boy? Mind if I take a look at him?"

"Little uncertainly," Tom led him into the bedroom. Seely bent over the crib.

"He's a nice-looking little fellow," he said. "Husky, too. I bet he's going out through okay!"

"The doctor says he's a little brighter," Ann said hopefully.

"Sure he is," said Seely, as they returned to the kitchen. "Anyone can see that. Over at the office, we heard about him and wanted to see how he's getting along."

THE policeman joined the group. "Hello, Seely," he grinned. "On the job, I see. Christmas Eve and all. Your job ain't much better than a cop's."

Seely smiled. "Yours is a lot better, if you ask me. You're having a real part in helping to save a kid's life."

The officer reacted as expected. Chest a little extended, shoulders a bit straighter, he grinned. "Seely continued, turning serious eyes toward Ann and Tom. "And let me tell you folks something. I've been on these stories before when Officer Sweeney has been on hand. Can't remember a case he's lost. Is that right?"

"Sure," answered the officer, not joggling his memory too much. "Seems like they give him all the toughest cases, too." Seely continued, in his slow voice. "His luck has been remarkable. Doctors always like to have him around in these emergencies."

Ann and Tom looked gratefully toward the burly policeman. Seely said no more, waiting for Sweeney to take his cue. He did.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—Visitors to New York often ask me how they can get to see celebrities at close range.

It's not an easy question to answer, because most celebrities are busy people who usually show themselves only when they've something to gain by it. That is to say, a tete-a-tete with a movie star, a politician or a prize fighter is generally obtained through their official publicity representatives.

The town is big, however, and if you're willing to gamble time and money you can manage to get a close-up of a favorite hero now and then. The opening night of a new play, for example, is standard bait for celebrities. If you're able to spend the ticket fee and to get dressed up in a boiled shirt, the intermissions on opening night will yield a peek or two at the darlings of Hollywood and Broadway.

Night clubs are another fairly reliable method. Many of the hot spots even capitalize on "celebrity nights," when they herd together a group of available headlines for public display. Even on other nights, however, you're likely to quarry some of your game. Sherman Fairchild's recent party at the Stork Club, for instance, gathered together Howard Hughes, Ginger Rogers, Gertrude Niesen, Jimmy Riordan and the attitude that the screen mother knows what is best for her child—as far as picture making is concerned—because it always has caused endless friction.

During working hours, Shirley belongs to the studio," Mrs. Temple explains. "The time she is off the set, she belongs to me."

"I decided on that policy a long time ago. I don't want to acquire ENCOURAGED—Times have changed for the theatrical profession. It was not so long ago that actors were almost in a class with hoboes and gangsters. Today the hop from pulpit to footlights is hardly more than a skip.

To wit: Helen Westley, of the Theater Guild, comes from a clan of Huguenot ministers. The fathers of Al Jolson, Willie and Eugene Howard and Irving Berlin were all famous cantors. Harold Raynor, a New Jersey minister, writes songs and jokes for Joe Penner.

Paul Whiteman's mother was a choir singer in Denver. Eugene O'Neill's mother was raised in a convent. The father of John Charles Thomas was a Methodist minister. Newell Chase, the composer, has a dad who is a prominent Boston clergyman, and the father of Harold Arlen, the song-writer, is a Syracuse rabbi.

The youngsters, however, are at least in a position to get the proper parental blessing.

SEEK REFUGE IN PORTS TO EVADE STORM

LONDON, Feb. 11.—UP—More than 100 vessels, including ocean going steamers, sought refuge in Plymouth harbor tonight from a 160-mile an hour gale sweeping the British Isles and Eastern Europe. Seven persons were known dead.

Scores of other ships were forced to abandon their courses and take shelter in nearby ports.

British naval exercises at Plymouth, Portsmouth, Portland and Chatham were cancelled.

In addition to seven deaths the storm caused scores of injuries. It is feared the death toll will mount considerably when communications are restored.

Two lifeboats, which ploughed through mountainous seas early today to answer SOS signals have not been heard from.

Considerable damage resulted in the British Isles. Roofs were blown off and trees uprooted. Traffic was disrupted. Trans-channel shipping was at a standstill. Air schedules were cancelled.

The weather forecast is that the gale will continue for two days. The storm extends to practically all of Europe.

EAR NOISES MAY PROVE TROUBLESOME

Doctors divide symptoms into two classes, putting in one class those symptoms which are readily observed by a person other than the patient and putting in the other class those symptoms which others are unable to see, hear or feel, but which the patient describes as being present. Swelling is an example of a symptom belonging to the first classification inasmuch as swelling is quickly noted by the eye of the observer, while pain is an example of a symptom belonging to the second classification. When the patient says he is in pain, we have to take his word for it. A group of very common symptoms belonging in the second classification is the group included under the heading of ear noises. Patients with ear noises may describe various kinds of ringing, buzzing, whirring, murmuring and roaring sounds. The type most frequently reported is similar to a dull roar. Ear noises are not apparent to others and the patient is the only one who hears them.

Ear noises may occur in one ear alone or may occur in both ears. They may be present only once in a while or may bother the patient continuously. Unquestionably they cause the patient a great deal of mental distress. It is not unusual for the patient to spend considerable sums of money in a vain attempt to banish these disturbing and annoying noises in the ears. Sometimes the patient says that the noises are absent early in the day when he is rested, but inevitably return when he becomes tired.

The medical term used to describe these various sounds is tinnitus aurium and they may accompany high blood pressure; chronic catarrh of the middle ear and other forms of ear disease; migraine headache; anemia; neurasthenia; or may be caused by the pressure of wax on the ear drum. Once the cause of the ear noises is determined, the taking of quinine. However, the two chief causes are high blood pressure and an excess of mucus within the ear due to catarrh. The immediate irritation which produces the throbbing noise is due generally either to high blood pressure or to an accumulation of catarrhal mucus. Whether the symptom is caused by blood pressure or mucus pressure, the patient actually has something which is irritating the nerve of hearing.

In a large proportion of the cases coming under my observation, the patient has been able to reduce the annoyance caused by ear noises through following a fasting and dieting regimen and in many cases the use of a right diet and other helpful measures has brought about a lasting disappearance of the symptom. I have received reports by mail of many patients, who were greatly helped in the same way, which further strengthens my belief that relief from ear noises can be found.

Inasmuch as roaring in the ears is very commonly present as one of the earlier symptoms in those disorders which lead to deafness it is important that treatment be undertaken to return the ear to normal before deafness intervenes. During the time that you neglect tinnitus or ringing in the ears, you may be slowly growing more and more deaf.

I strongly suggest that those of you who have ear noises, send for my article on the subject, which you may obtain by writing to me in care of this newspaper and enclosing ten cents and one large, self-addressed envelope. The article will provide you with further information which I trust you will find helpful. I also suggest that at the same time, you ask for some general dietetic suggestions, as it is frequently found that the patient with ear noises has been following an unsuitable diet which has caused a digestive disturbance. The digestive interference will in turn induce a tendency to catarrhal inflammation of the nose which spreads up to the middle ear by way of the Eustachian tube. The middle ear must be kept free of catarrh as an accessory cavity of the nose and catarrh of the nose may easily affect the middle ear by simply extending along the tube which connects them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Diet for Stomach Ulcers)
Question: Mrs. H. W. writes: "I have had so much trouble with my stomach that my doctor took an x-ray and he found a well-developed ulcer. He put me on a milk diet but I am tired of it and hate to stay on it. I am satisfied with the milk when I do not watch others eat but when I watch the family sit down to a meal, I want something to cheer. What do you think I should do?"

Answer: I advise that you continue to follow the doctor's instructions. The strict milk diet will encourage the healing of the ulcer and after you have received the good results from the milk regimen you will then have plenty of time left to enjoy meals with your family. Perseverance and patience are required to permanently overcome a trouble as serious as stomach ulcers. If it bothers you to watch others eat but when you watch the family sit down to a meal, I want something to cheer. What do you think I should do? I suggest that you read the newspaper while the others are dining. You will receive far more successful results if you stick with the diet until your ulcer is entirely healed. Stopping the milk diet now will only undo all the good you have done. I am under the impression that you are following instructions similar to those given in my two articles on Stomach Ulcers. These articles give the directions for taking the milk and outline the treatment I have found to be the best after 25 years of experience. It might encourage you to send for the articles and read them. The articles will be forwarded to everyone who writes in care of this newspaper and encloses one large, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Many Persons Suffer Mentally From Ailments They Imagine They Have

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

QUITE contrary to the folks who are genuinely ill and need encouragement are the many persons who suffer mentally from ailments they imagine they have. They seem almost as if they are compelled to use up a great deal of time trying to convince themselves that the great troubles in the world are that they are not well. They have the very symptoms of disease in these discussions of disease in order to induce persons who do not feel well to consult a physician before their trouble becomes chronic or incurable.

Certainly, it is not to encourage them to make their own diagnoses. All serious diseases of the lungs, for example, present such symptoms as cough, pain, fever and chills. But the nature of the trouble only is determined by one examination and interpretation of these symptoms. It is so easy when one and neighbors describe some condition they may have or have heard about to feel we may have that same trouble, and we suffer from much unnecessary worry.

Impression on a Mind

A case in point appears in a letter from Mrs. G. H. She is nearly seventy years of age and has always been well, except for occasional injuries and one attack of rheumatism. It is able to do her own work, takes care of a large house, and is well.

One of her friends had heard of read some terrible thing and had to pass it on. It was that a blood disease called syphilis could be contracted by the use of a drinking cup some one with the disease had used, and also that it could be inherited from an ancestor.

Well, the statement was correct. The doctors and health authorities have been fighting against the use of the common drinking cup and common towels for years, not only from the danger of contracting this trouble, but many nose, mouth and throat troubles.

These are such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid, common cold, tuberculosis, pneumonia and any other infectious disease that affects the nose and throat. To contract syphilis by the use of the drinking cup is a very rare disease must be in the stage in which open sores are in the mouth. This is only for a few weeks and you must have a raw spot in your mouth, which comes in contact with the germs.

If the disease is inherited, it makes its appearance in infancy and early childhood, and those so afflicted seldom live to adult life. So this case of worry is totally unnecessary. Mrs. H. has suffered from a dry scaly skin disease for a number of years. It gets well and reappears. It first appeared on an arm, now it shows up on her abdomen and legs. It itches and burns, does not cause pain, but is very annoying.

An Unnecessary Anxiety

The eruption of syphilis is present only for a few weeks or months, does not itch or burn, does not recur after it once disappears. She hesitates in consulting a physician for fear he will think she has a blood disease. Well, fear of what a doctor will discover and say causes a vast amount of unnecessary anxiety. He will usually find much less than you anticipate.

Some very serious appearing eruptions are simple to the physician. Mrs. H. is suffering from eczema, and some one of the various forms of eczema. It may arise from some internal disturbance, such as intestinal toxemia, or some article of food that irritates her, and it may be only a local trouble.

She says frequent bathing does not help. Usually soap and water should be used very sparingly in eczema. I have written several articles on eczema and will not repeat them here. Each case must be treated as an individual and the local physician will help her to get rid of it, if he and she persist in treatment.

Mrs. A. M. complains of a breaking out over her abdomen, thigh, and legs. It is dry, scaly and in some places raw and crusty. Much worse when she gets warm and at night. She is using an ointment of tar and sheen talow. It is a good application, but be careful to have enough, and not too much, for a five per cent salicylic ointment is often helpful. See a physician. There may be some systemic trouble causing this.

Profiles For Today

From Impresario to Concert Singer

By TALBOT LAKE

STARS of the musical world have had strange beginnings—Martinelli came from a cabinetmaker's bench, Eslo Pinza from a disastrous bike riding career. None, however, can match the background of Major London Greenlee, Scotch baritone, now making his first concert tour of the United States.

A British army officer, he fought with the Scottish Horse and Scotch Guards during the war, being seriously wounded with the latter. Although he never practiced law, he passed his bar examinations and his legal training led to his appointment as Summary Court Officer of Cologne and surrounding territory with the British Army Occupation.

Major Greenlee's military career did not keep him from music. He had studied voice in England, France and Germany, after attending Harrow, one of England's famed public schools. After the war, he returned to the life of a country gentleman, raising grouse, pheasants, and deer, riding to hounds and playing golf. Incidentally, he is probably one of the best golfers in the music world and shot par regularly until a few years ago, when music cut into his golfing time.

He became one of the directors of Covent Garden, London's great opera house, and traveled many thousands of miles as talent scout, signing some of today's greatest stars for Covent Garden. During all these activities Major Greenlee has kept up with his musical studies, and this year he decided to reverse the usual success story and turn from impresario to singer.

He has appeared with many of Europe's great orchestras, and has broadcast from London, Paris, Berlin, and Oslo. German Lieder and Wagner are his favorite music, although his audience requests Scottish and English songs most often.

Hangnails Are Bane of Each Woman's Life

By JACQUELINE HUNT

EVEN the busiest homemaker or office girl usually finds time to slip a weekly manicure and a daily application of hand cream or lotion into her beauty schedule. But how many spend as much as five minutes daily caring for the hands? It is the special care that makes all the difference between ordinary hands and lovely ones.

One weekly manicure and hand treatment will not make up for a week of neglect. You do not cleanse your face and give special attention to make-up one day of the week and expect your complexion to remain radiant week after week. Your hands are on display just as much, and remember they must work at grimy tasks constantly.

Hand treatments are not nearly so complicated as those needed for keeping the complexion clear, but they are just as essential. Whether you keep house or whether you are a business girl your hands are constantly helping to carve your career, and they deserve the best of care.

Steal five minutes from the rest period for whatever your occupation, you should have a few minutes for relaxation every day. Look your hands over carefully. There may be a minute snag on one of the nails that if smoothed off at once will prevent further damage, but if it is neglected the first thing you know it will catch on something and tear off completely, or what is nearly as bad, ruin a perfectly good pair of hose.

Be on the lookout for hangnails! They are usually reminders that you haven't been very careful about using a good cuticle oil or rich hand cream. Apply a little warm olive oil with a cotton wrapped orange stick and then snip off the ragged cuticle or edge as close to the skin as possible.

Women often ask what they can do about callouses. Hands that are tender may have callouses from the bases of the fingers after prolonged work of any kind. Massage these callouses with cream until they are softened and then try to roll them off. If this doesn't work scrub gently with a little powdered pumice stone or apply some cuticle remover.

If you use the latter, apply it with cotton wrapped around an orange stick, using several applications. Rub your hands in warm water and dry with a rough towel, rubbing the softened callouses away with the drying. After this use a generous amount of hand cream. Try to wear gloves when doing any of the jobs that cause the callouses.

Apply cuticle oil or cream daily to keep the skin at the base of the nails soft and smooth. Frequent washing is necessary to keep your hands immaculate, but it is just as dry unless you remember to apply oil in some form daily. It takes but a moment to massage hand cream or warm olive oil into your hands at night. In addition, use a hand lotion over the backs of the hands, wrists, and fingers during the day to protect them and keep them soft and smooth.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I am not thirty yet, but my neck is as wrinkled and scrawny as an old woman's. It is also darker in color than the rest of my face.—S."

There is a tendency to skip or scrubbing and pampering with rich creams when we come to necks. Yet you must give your neck some attention if you want it to remain smooth and youthful. Use your complexion brush and scrub with light rotary, upward strokes before you wash your face. Then rinse thoroughly. This is about the shoulders to exercise the muscles of the neck. Remove the surplus cream and go over the neck again, massaging with a piece of ice wrapped in gauze.

QUESTION: "I have a nice clear skin at present and I am anxious to keep it that way. How can I guard against the natural tendency of the skin to dry and become sluggish with age?—Serious."

Just continue to follow the intelligent beauty routine you must be following at present. And apply oils and creams to keep the skin well lubricated. You should also keep the circulation stimulated by gentle massage, cold water rinses, and a good skin tonic. Add a foundation cream or lotion for stormy days, and a suntan oil for summer, and you have done all you can to keep your skin perfect, and I am sure you will do that.

The Draped Effect

This royal blue velvet gown, worn by Alice Daley, film actress, is draped and fitted at the hips. A gathered panel of the fabric velvet, suspended from a velvet loop, is worn with the gown. A striking belt of satin in a low, and a rhinestone and sapphire bracelet, are the sole ornaments.

Coat Dresses Are Stated To Play Major Role Now

By IRENE VAIL

NEW YORK—While waiting patiently for the arrival of fashions from the Paris openings, even detailed descriptions of them, I am going to pass on some information gleaned from close-ups of our own collections.

I discover the coat dress is a type that survives as the fittest of daytime dresses, bidding for new glory this season as a major style, running along with suits in one class and soft afternoon dresses in another. One of the best reasons to account for the favorable hand cream or warm olive oil into your hands at night. In addition, use a hand lotion over the backs of the hands, wrists, and fingers during the day to protect them and keep them soft and smooth.

Among collections devoted to more frivolous frocks, the sort one wears to dance or dine, I also discovered that a jacket, or in the stances a cape, with every frock is practically the rule for new collections of evening fashions. Some of the jackets are tiny things, like short boleros, but emphasis on puffed shoulders for sleeves establishes the definite importance of the jacket as part of the evening silhouette.

The suit influence in dress collections means that so many of the dresses or costumes appear as suits because of their simple skirts and little complementary jackets.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "Do girls ever check their wraps in hotel restaurants or do they slip out of them at the table?—D. M."

ANSWER: If there is a check room at a hotel, or may wear it to the table. She sits down, waiting it, loosens it from the shoulders and lets it fall over the chair-back. Most girls and women prefer to wear their wraps to the table.

QUESTION: "Is it correct to make up at the table after dinner in a restaurant?—D. M."

ANSWER: A girl may apply a dab of powder and even touch up her lips if she can manage to do so inconspicuously. But it is in public at all. This rule always has been and will hold so long as there are dressing rooms for the purpose.

Sunday Teas

Need to Have Flexible Menu

By JUDITH WILSON

SUNDAY NIGHT is ideal for entertaining, whether at a small intimate supper or a buffet supper for a crowd. If you choose the latter have a well-stocked refrigerator and a menu flexible enough to be extended if more guests come than you have anticipated. Try to plan a menu, most of which you can prepare the day before.

One hot dish is sufficient, and the simplest dessert is usually enough—although if you wish you may have both a hot and a cold dessert. Sugary doughnuts, cheese and crackers, individual fruit pies that can be reheated, a fruit sherbet, or ice cream are good choices.

SUPPERS
Welsh Rarebit on Crisp Toast or Crackers
Bacon Cured Chutney
Jellied Orange Salad
Sugared Doughnuts
Coffee

Cocktails
Cheese Polcorn
Sweetbread-Mushrooms in Patty Shells
Deviled Egg Salad
Strawberries Chantilly
Sugar Wafers
Coffee

Cheese Rarebit
A cheese rarebit will never fail to hold the center stage of your supper table. You can have the ingredients measured and ready to mix and cook on your chafing dish while everyone waits in anticipation. Melt one tablespoon butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and mix the two until well blended. Add 1/2 cup milk a little at a time and cook until thick and smooth. Add 1/2 pound shaved cheese and when melted add 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard and a few grains of cayenne pepper. The rarebit should cook only until the cheese is melted. Serve over crackers or crisp buttered toast.

Raised Doughnuts
Heat 1 1/2 cups milk. Put into a large deep bowl with 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/3 cup shortening. Mix and let cool to lukewarm. Then add 1 well-beaten egg and 2 yeast cakes that have been dissolved in 1/4 cup lukewarm water. Mix together. Add flour enough to make a ball of dough that doesn't cling to the bowl—a little stiffer than that for hot rolls. Let the dough raise to twice its bulk, keeping it covered and in a warm place. Take out on the pasty board, knead lightly, roll, cut into strips, twist and shape with the hands. Let stand a few minutes covered, then fry a few at a time until well browned. They will puff in the hot fat so do not make them too large to begin with. Drain on unglazed paper, and sprinkle thickly with granulated sugar.

Jellied Egg Salad
If your supper begins with a hot, substantial soup you might wish to have a salad main course. If so you can make no better choice than the following: Heat 1 can tomato juice and pour over 1 tablespoon gelatin that has been softened in 2 tablespoons cold water. Stir until dissolved and add 1 teaspoon sugar, the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, salt, pepper and celery salt to taste. Pour half of the jelly into an oblong mold, and when nearly set, add a layer of sliced hard-cooked eggs and enough jelly to cover. When this is firm, add a layer of asparagus tips drained from their liquid. Add

MODERN WOMEN

Theory That Man Pursues the Woman Not Vindicated in Most Cases

By MARIAN MAYES MARTIN

LEAP YEAR should be incentive enough to inspire any woman with a determination to get her man. Here is a letter from a man who calmly admits he would like the lady to make it clear from the start that "Barkis is willin'." My correspondent declares a man can soon find out whether a girl's attentions are serious, and that it's a help for a man to know she is in a mood of acceptance.

An infallible rule for finding out the girl's intention has always been that when she begins to worry about the amount of money a man is spending on her, he means to count himself as good as at the altar. Personally, I know of no surer test, although it is one that can only be applied to those of limited incomes, since obviously when a man has oodles of money it can't possibly make any difference what the check totals.

It was George Bernard Shaw who first dared to speak up and declare women to be the selective sex. Naturally, such a revelation aroused a storm of protest from women, who were chagrined at the having their method exposed. Since that time society has learned to accept the theory that women are responsible for whether the marriage is a success or failure.

So long as the marriage is successful, what difference does it make whose idea it is in the first place? Women understand it is their sacred duty to make any good idea seem to be the man's.

You and Your Child
Babied Child Starts Life With a Handicap

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

A PARTY was given recently for children between four and six, the mothers accompanying the children. When the food was served, Mollie's mother took her place beside the chair of her five-year-old. She cut up the food and buttered a piece of bread before Mollie's mother rejoined the other ladies in the living room. Before long, however, Mollie called her back to her side. She was perspiring and looking a little unwell.

All the other children were passing things to one another and reaching for what they wanted. Mollie might have done the same. Indeed, after offering her a cookie, Mollie's mother picked up her toy, washed her hands for her, and then Mollie's mother's hands her things and catered to her slightest need. She exhausted herself in behalf of her child, and when others criticized Mollie for being so helpless, she is right there to defend her! "Mollie will outgrow it. She'll know better when she is older."

But it is questionable whether Mollie will. You cannot postpone teaching a child useful habits and expect her meanwhile not to acquire other habits. A child learns in spite of the mother and in spite of herself. Any course of action for being so helpless, she is right bound to become fixed as a habit. The sum total of Mollie's training, for example, is a lack of initiative and total dependence upon her mother for help and protection. The time to teach a child is when he is ready to learn, not when he is old enough to know better. By the time he is some years old, I am convinced women marry the men. Men do not marry women unless marrying women is their business.

There is a very new theory about my theory that women marry men, but it is undoubtedly true we do seem to cling persistently to the notion that men are always on their knees proposing to some girl and that she is coy and hard to please. What twaddle!

A Different Slant
There are plenty of young women who could tell a different story if they could. They know how they get their husbands, but they won't admit there was a lot of subtle salesmanship in the proceedings. When a woman has no intention of marrying, a man can soon figure it out. If a man had money a girl might consider him as an investment rather than a romance, with divorce and alimony to follow possibly. But when a couple stand under a floral wedding bell it is an even bet the lady did most of the engineering and that the man merely yessed her. To be sure, he doesn't know that, but what a chap doesn't know doesn't hurt him in the game of love.

I am not trying to make the point that marriage is a failure when the woman pulls the strings. She may know she can make a certain man a good wife and I call that a fair exchange of values. People who have been through the mill know marriage is not all love and kisses, with Cupid always on the job. The state of matrimony can be pretty trying sometimes, and the thing so many young people think is love wears itself out in a burst of flame.

The big idea of happiness is always in a male's mind, plus such perquisites as a married state. Youth is madness, but youth is always to be pitied. I refer now to people who know their way about. Half the kid marriages fail because the entries are too inexperienced in life and that explains everything. If I intended to marry I should expect the lady to show her interest by putting the proposition before the house. I should know then she really wanted to marry me and that the spare work wasn't all on my side.

LOS ANGELES COPS DRIVEN FROM MODOC

Modoc authorities expressed no concern whatever, at reported threats from Los Angeles to "dump" a cargo of hitch-hikers, bums, hoboes and penniless transients in the county as retaliation for the "Foreign Legion" ouster. They pointed out that Los Angeles is nearly 1,000 miles distant.

DAMAGE SUITS LOOM
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—UP—Operations of the "Foreign Legion" of James E. Davis, Los Angeles police chief, may result in damage suits being filed against him by hoboes and other indigent transients kept out of the state by the extended Los Angeles police lines. H. H. McPike, U. S. district attorney said today.

McPike indicated he was preparing an answer to the American Civil Liberties Union, which had written asking Federal action against Davis on the grounds "denial of the right" to enter this state by the use of armed police officers is in contravention of the constitution and may well be held to constitute a conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States by force and violence."

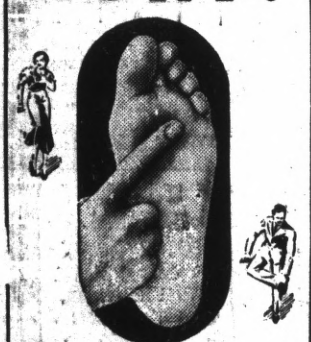

The attorney said he would inform the union there is no grounds for Federal action but that citizens being stopped at the border probably are being deprived of their constitutional rights and therefore have a basis for damage suits against Davis.

CASH READY TO DELIVER ON DEMAND

Two cases in August for $15.00 each. All of this would have been turned over in October if I had not been discharged on September 30, 1935, at 9 o'clock P. M. to take effect October 1, 1935 at 8 o'clock A. M. That gives an officer some chance to close his books. Not having a chance to turn the money over, the only thing I could do was to hold it until my books were audited and the audit approved by the C. H. Trustees.

"The $475.50 is made up of overcharge against me by the accountant in his report, bail which has been deposited with the Court to cover cases still pending, bail deposited with the Superior Court in cases bound over to the superior Court, $75.00 held in J. J. B. case which was on appeal to the superior court and can not be turned over to the City until the appeal is disposed of, money collected by me in September to be turned over in October, all in the sum of $475.50. The balance of the $475.50 or $102.50 is made up of various small cases which the clerk and bookkeeper furnished by the City to keep the books and do the clerical work fall from time to time through inadvertent oversight or other good reasons, to include in the monthly reports. These small cases cover time from $2.00 to $15.00 and run back through the records to May 1, 1935. I depended on the assistant furnished to keep the books and upon the certified public accountant employed to audit my books from time to time to catch any errors made or cases omitted. Otherwise I would have had to audit the books myself and I do not claim to be a certified public accountant."

"The 700 cases of which the auditor's report speaks are made up very largely of traffic citations. After a person is given a traffic citation he has 5 days in which to appear. Many of them do not appear. They either have given an incorrect address or change their place of residence."

Yet he carried on, firm in the conviction that the path he was treading was the way of right and justice.

Lincoln's greatness lay in his simplicity. His was a great but simple soul. His life in its simplicity reflected the inner man and his words likewise portrayed a sweet and simple spirit and a heart large enough to encompass the woes of his fellowman. Yet, when believing himself right, he went straight ahead toward his goal, even though it was a death sentence.

Every pupil in the public schools should be forced to read the life of Lincoln and to study his immortal documents of state. There are invaluable lessons to be gathered, not the least of which is the path to greatness is never found in the land of luxury, but rather through hardship and diligence in doing the appointed daily task.

Used Dynamite Box As Auction Stand

ALAMEDA, Feb. 11.—UP—With lusty blows Miss Vona Walker hammered on a box of her father's belongings, offering to auction it off to the highest bidder. Prospective buyers and Miss Walker gasped, then ducked, when the box shattered under the pounding and 36 sticks of dynamite rolled out. Police took the explosives away.

As the box was the only one of the kind, warrants are issued for the officers who have the warrants for serving fail to find the parties either because they have given a wrong address or have moved to parts unknown. The officers return the warrants unserved. The Court can do nothing further with such cases except to carry them on his books or dismiss them. As all of these cases are reported to the vehicle department at Sacramento and as driver's or automobile licenses will not be given to any one against whom a fine has been assessed and unpaid or who has failed to appear, I carried these cases on my books instead of dismissing them with the threat of catching as many of the violators as possible through the office at Sacramento.

"The $2,472.10 uncollected on fines is made up partly of cases left over by my predecessor in office and goes back to the time I took office. During the stress and strain of the financial depression, many persons were hauled in my court who were good citizens. They were guilty of violation of traffic regulations only. Many of them were out of work and had no money or property. If I had sent them all to jail I would have ever run the jail and would have heard from the tax payers. The only thing the court could do was to place the fines on the installment basis. Many of them paid 75¢ a time and then left for parts unknown. These have been carried on the books for the same reason as above stated.

"The report shows that this Court during my incumbency in office considered over 6000 cases and collected in fines the sum aggregating $5,114.70. Both the judge and his assistant were only part time employees. Comparing the amount still standing out on fines and the amount collected, I am of the opinion that the City of El Cerrito has nothing to worry about."

Mrs. Jackson who was receiving county aid. She could get only $200 for them. She said Mrs. Jackson made an assignment, before Attorney Will Robinson of Richmond, to Mrs. McCord of certain jewelry.

Mrs. Booth quoted Mrs. McCord as saying: "I said $388.98 of my own money for those diamonds. I am out $68.98. I couldn't get any more. I tried hard enough."

She testified Mrs. McCord directed her to have Mrs. Jackson sign a receipt before she leaves for $68.98."

"What are you going to do then?" Mrs. Booth queried, according to the transcript.

PUT IN CLAIM
"Well, then, we will put in a claim to the county and I will be reimbursed," Mrs. Booth's testimony quotes Mrs. McCord.

Then Mrs. Booth assertedly had the receipt signed as "cash advanced for expenses to Moffatt, Colo." Her testimony reads:

"In a day or so a check came payable to me for $68.98 and Mrs.

Hot Money Plant In San Quentin.

Wilson was arrested and assertedly led officers to a cache of the counterfeit money in his home. Wilson declared the bills were made in the prison photo engraving plant, Foster said.

Three Federal agents searched through San Quentin's crowded cells, hunting some trace of the plates supposedly used in manufacture of the bills. Early tonight they reported they had found no physical evidence of the counterfeiting activity.

Parr was brought to San Francisco for questioning. He denied any connection with counterfeiting.

Other prison inmates were closely questioned by Capt. Foster and other agents. Foster said he was convinced that other convicts must have been involved in the plot.

McCord had already left $35 or $40 in my office for me to deposit for her and so she called up and said 'put that check in my account at the Mechanics' Bank with the money I left'."

She testified she made the deposit.
